Twenty one students drawn from four Government Colleges viz. the Government College of Arts, Science & Commerce, Quepem, the Government College of Arts, Science & Commerce, Sanquelim, the Government College of Arts, Science & Commerce, Khandola and the Government College of Commerce and Economics, Borda-Margao participated in the course.

The resource person was Mr. Ryan Vaz of Infinity 3D who was assisted by his team members. The course was based on syllabus provided by t

During the 30 hour skill based course, the students were taught to use the SKETCH UP software to design novel products and print out the products they created too. The students were divided into groups and learnt how to assemble the 3D printers too.

The four groups designed novel products which they then printed and made presentations of the same.

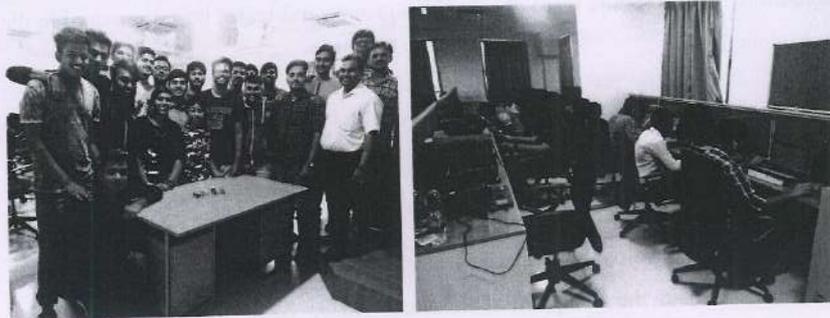

Group I created a pot holder with a secret compartment to safety keep their house keys or even other valuables. Groups II designed a holder for pens/pencils which could be affixed to the computer table itself. Group III created a novel product similar to a hanger which would enable a shopper to carry 4 carry bags loaded with stuff together ensuring weight distribution and reducing pain and pressure on the hand.

Group IV designed and created a product designed to solve a problem encountered by one of their members-sweaty hands which made it difficult for him to hold on to his mobile. The product not just addressed this issue successfully but facilitated the clicking of selfies and also served as a stand for the mobile which made watching of videos hand free.

The students feedback of the course was positive. They opined that the course should have been of a longer duration. Some of the students felt that this skill based course should actually be a part of the Goa University curriculum. Students also felt that the colleges should have their own 3D Printers. This would facilitate incubation of ideas and innovations.

The Organisers as also the students were thankful to the DHE for financing this course in 3D Printing
